

Whistleblower Protection Act of 1989

The Whistleblower Protection Act of 1989 is a United States federal law that protects federal whistleblowers, or persons who work for the government who report agency misconduct. A federal agency violates the Whistleblower Protection Act if it takes or fails to take (or threatens to take or fail to take) a personnel action with respect to any employee or applicant because of any disclosure of information by the employee or applicant that he or she reasonably believes evidences a violation of a law, rule or regulation; gross mismanagement; gross waste of funds; an abuse of authority; or a substantial and specific danger to public health or safety.

YOU ARE INVITED

NTEU Chapter 305 is looking for employees who would be interested in visiting the offices of their elected Federal Representatives to discuss current and/or ongoing issues regarding the Alcohol & Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau. If you are interested in being included in such a group or groups, please contact your nearest Union representative. You will need to use leave or be in a non-duty status to attend.
